Hiwassee

in this generation,
we have learned
that the old
man—the
consuming
man, the purely technological
man, the wholly
materialistic
man— must die.

but who
will take his place?

the new
man — the
more humane,
aware,
concerned
man.

but where
will he
be found?

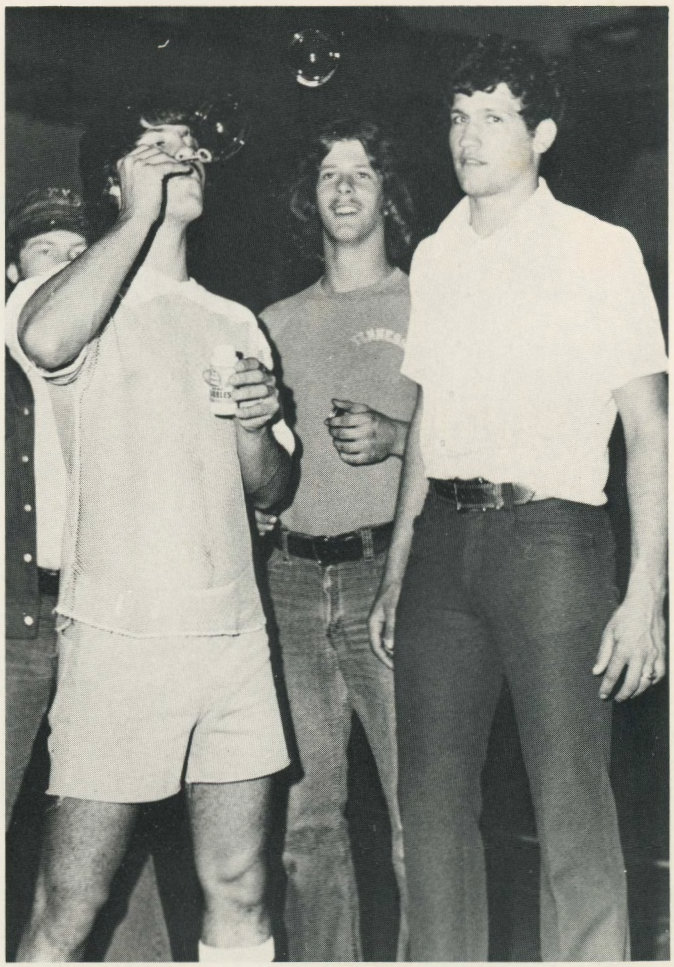
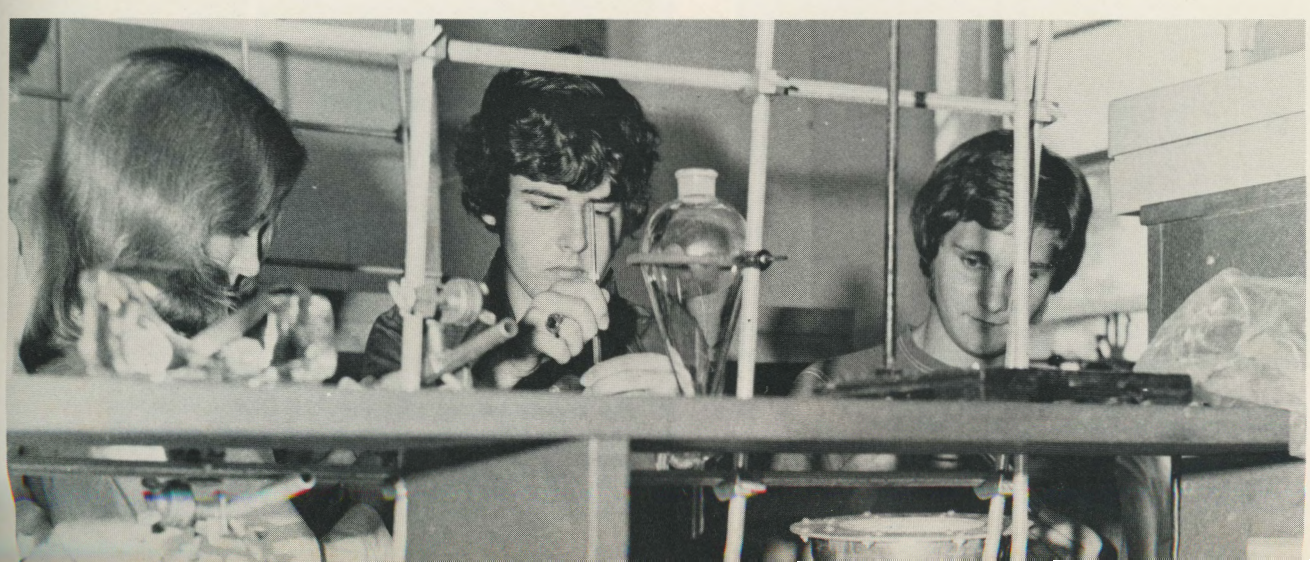
our new world must
have growth, beauty,
and life.



But what will it all come to if our generation lacks the capacity to love



BRUNNER HALL

this generation is learning the gaiety of laughter and play and the joy of work in which to excel—the world needs both so very much!

our generation is discovering the meaning of self-fulfillment . . .
